Who is Aqeel Al Raeesi

Aqeel Al Raeesi is a Kuwaiti actor and social media influencer of Iranian descent, born on May 15, 1992, and raised in Kuwait to a Kuwaiti mother and Iranian father. He entered the entertainment industry in 2013 after graduating from the Higher Institute of Dramatic Arts, specializing in acting and directing. Aqeel began his career in television commercials and quickly became a familiar face thanks to a catchy phrase in a juice ad that resonated with audiences. His breakthrough acting role came in 2014 with the series "Thuraya," where he impressed viewers by mastering a Syrian accent, showcasing his dedication and talent. Aqeel gained further popularity through social media, especially Snapchat and Instagram, where he shared daily life moments and behind-the-scenes glimpses of his work, connecting closely with young fans. His relationship with actress Farah Al Hadi became a major media event; after years as close friends and colleagues, Aqeel proposed to Farah publicly on Instagram in late 2017, and they married that November. Their joyful marriage has since captivated audiences and boosted his following across platforms.

Achievements of Aqeel Al Raeesi

Aqeel Al Raeesi has achieved significant milestones in both his artistic and media career at a young age. He has starred in several successful Kuwaiti TV series, including "Hal Manayer" (2015), "Kalam Asfar" (2018), and "Afak Al Khater" (2020), proving his versatility in both drama and comedy. In 2017, he was honored at the "Al Mumayazoon" Festival as part of the "Best Artistic Duo" with his wife Farah Al Hadi, solidifying his reputation as a beloved actor. Beyond television, Aqeel expanded his experience to theater with the Gulf Arab Theater Troupe. On social media, he is recognized as one of Kuwait's leading young influencers, amassing a large Instagram following with his spontaneous and humorous content, especially in videos featuring his wife. In Ramadan 2025, Aqeel and Farah launched a joint cooking show, "Aqeel & Farah's Kitchen," which quickly gained popularity on YouTube. Additionally, he has ventured into entrepreneurship through fashion projects with his wife and regularly attends high-profile product launches in Kuwait. Aqeel's dynamic presence across traditional and digital media makes him a role model for the modern, multi-talented young artist.
