

Dima Aslan

Businesswoman, Chef & Turkish Fashion Designer

1990-04-05 - Turkish - Turkey

Read More

Who is Dima Aslan

Dima Aslan is a Turkish businesswoman, chef, and fashion designer of Syrian descent, born in Damascus on April 5, 1990. Raised in a multicultural environment –her father Turkish and her mother Turkmen Syrian–she is fluent in both Arabic and Turkish. Dima lived in Damascus until 2014 before relocating permanently to Turkey. She began her career in fashion design, co-founding her eveningwear brand "Dado Style" in Istanbul with her brother, offering elegant designs at accessible prices and quickly gaining widespread recognition. Alongside her fashion work, Dima started sharing her passion for cooking on social media, presenting recipes that blend Turkish and Arabic cuisines. Through her content, she aims to build a cultural bridge between the two communities, offering Turkish dishes in Arabic and vice versa, with a focus on shared customs and traditions. She has achieved significant success as a content creator, attracting a large audience engaged with her recipes that combine authenticity and modernity.

Achievements of Dima Aslan

Dima Aslan founded her Istanbul-based eveningwear and fashion brand "Dado Style" in collaboration with her brother. The family-run brand has established a broad client base both in Turkey and internationally by focusing on contemporary designs at competitive prices. Dima has also emerged as an influential culinary figure on social media, specializing in content that bridges Arabic and Turkish cultures. Through her YouTube channel and other platforms, she presents simplified recipes from both cuisines, translating content between the two languages, thereby fostering cultural exchange and a deeper appreciation of the shared heritage between the two peoples.

Read More