Who is Dr. Khaled Ghattass

Dr. Khaled Ghattass is a Lebanese biologist, author, and lecturer, recognized as one of the prominent contemporary Arab intellectual voices. Born in Sidon in 1983, he uniquely blends behavioral sciences, philosophical thought, and cultural understanding, skillfully transforming complex academic concepts into impactful human stories. After earning his PhD in Cellular and Molecular Biology from the American University of Beirut with a focus on breast cancer research, he expanded his academic horizons with an MBA in International Business from Spain and executive programs from Harvard, Cornell, and Stanford universities. His career extends beyond scientific research to include university teaching and consulting in leadership and corporate culture. In 2020, Dr. Ghattass founded "Al Warsheh," a social initiative in Lebanon aimed at fostering an intellectually and emotionally balanced generation of youth. Through his digital platforms, where he has amassed a large following, he shares content focused on human relationships, decision-making, and critical thinking. This has established him as a keynote speaker at major events and conferences across the Arab world.

Achievements of Dr. Khaled Ghattass

Dr. Khaled Ghattass has authored several successful books, including the philosophical short story collection "Hypocrisy was Beautiful" (وكان النفاق جميلاً) in 2022, followed by "This is Not What I Wrote" (ليس هذا ما كتبت) in 2023, and "The Penultimate Story" (القصة ما قبل الأخيرة). His literary works aim to provoke contemplation on the social and individual dilemmas facing contemporary society. In 2020, he founded the "Al Warsheh" social initiative in Lebanon, a platform dedicated to fostering an intellectually and emotionally balanced young generation through cultural, educational, and sports programs. This initiative reflects his commitment to direct social impact and youth development. Due to his intellectual influence, Dr. Ghattass has become a sought-after speaker at international forums, participating in prestigious events like the World Governments Summit. He has been honored by numerous bodies, including the Arab Media Forum in Kuwait, the Arab Media Forum in Dubai, and the Lebanese Ministry of Culture, in recognition of his achievements and intellectual impact.
