Who is Hala Samir

Dr. Hala Samir is a prominent Egyptian media personality and a consultant specializing in family relations, education, and mental health. Born in August 1973, she has built a multifaceted career that combines media, counseling, and human development. Although her academic journey began with a Bachelor's degree in Tourism and Hotels from Alexandria University, her passion for law and human sciences led her to earn a law degree from Tanta University and pursue postgraduate studies in Sharia and Law at Menoufia University. Dr. Samir gained widespread recognition through a series of impactful television programs focused on Muslim family issues. Her most notable shows include "Biyut Munawwara" (Enlightened Homes) on Watan TV, "Mawadda wa Rahma" (Affection and Mercy) and "El Sah Fein?!" (Where is the Right Way?!) on Mekameleen TV, and "Fi Rehabeha" (In Its Vastness). She utilizes her media platforms, including a highly popular YouTube channel, to offer guidance on parenting, marital relationships, and self-development from a contemporary Islamic perspective. She left Egypt in 2016 and currently resides in Istanbul, Turkey, from where she continues her advocacy and media work. She is a mother of four children: Mohammed, Yomna, Maryam, and Shifaa.

Achievements of Hala Samir

Dr. Hala Samir has hosted several successful television programs that achieved widespread viewership across the Arab world. Notable among these are "Biyut Munawwara" (Enlightened Homes), which focused on practical solutions for daily family problems, and "Mawadda wa Rahma" (Affection and Mercy), aimed at strengthening marital bonds. These programs were broadcast on channels such as Watan and Mekameleen. Dr. Samir has authored at least two books that have helped disseminate her counseling philosophy. Her first book is titled "Huwa Ismatu Amri" (He is the Guardian of My Affair), and the second is "Mawadda wa Rahma fi Biyut Munawwara" (Affection and Mercy in Enlightened Homes), which compiles selected articles to enhance family happiness. Her books are available at international book fairs and serve as a reference for her followers. As a certified trainer in human development and family counseling, Dr. Samir holds numerous international accreditations from respected bodies like the American Board and Cambridge University. Her certifications include advanced specializations in Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP) and Time Line Therapy (TLT), reflecting her deep academic and practical expertise in the consulting field.
