Who is Khalid Al Ameri

Khalid Al Ameri is an Emirati content creator from Abu Dhabi, widely recognized for his heartfelt family videos delivered with a warm, comedic touch. A Stanford University graduate, Khalid left the corporate world to dedicate himself to social content creation alongside his wife, Salama Mohamed. Together, they shed light on the everyday life of Emirati families in a fun and relatable way. Their journey began on Facebook and YouTube, later expanding to Snapchat, where audiences follow Khalid's daily stories filled with positivity and meaningful cultural messages. Khalid Al Ameri's content focuses on cultural connection and highlights core Emirati values such as generosity and family unity, while also addressing universal themes like tolerance and coexistence. This unique approach has made him an unofficial ambassador for modern Emirati values. One of his most popular videos featured his wife wearing the traditional abaya in a community role, which went viral globally and was praised by international media as a positive message from the Gulf. Khalid's bilingual delivery in both English and Arabic has earned him a diverse local and international following of over 5 million across platforms. He has been honored by government entities and youth conferences as an inspiring role model for Emirati youth. Today, Khalid Al Ameri and his family set the standard for impactful family content, proving that social media can be a bridge for understanding and joy among people.
