Who is Malek Akkad

Malek Akkad is a Syrian trading expert, investor, and the founder of FXCLEVER, an academy dedicated to teaching the art of trading in global financial markets. He is currently based in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, from where he manages his business and offers his expertise to Arab traders. Akkad's educational content focuses on simplifying complex trading concepts and providing practical strategies applicable to markets such as Forex, gold, oil, and global indices. Akkad began his trading journey in 2017. After years of learning and practice, he established his academy with the goal of creating a reliable Arabic-language educational resource. Through his social media platforms and official website, he offers comprehensive training courses, live webinars, market analysis sessions, and shares trading signals and analytical insights. His work aims to empower Arab traders with the necessary tools and knowledge to achieve success and avoid common pitfalls in the field.

Achievements of Malek Akkad

Malek Akkad founded FXCLEVER, a comprehensive educational platform designed to fill the gap in professional Arabic-language trading content. The academy offers a variety of courses covering all skill levels, from beginner to advanced, helping to build a community of educated Arab traders. He has successfully developed and expanded his digital presence across multiple platforms, including YouTube, Instagram, and Telegram, becoming a well-known voice in the region's trading education sector. He uses these platforms to provide daily market analysis, practical tips, and free educational content, promoting a culture of informed trading.
