

Maram Al Dahabi

Syrian Content Creator and Entrepreneur

Syrian - United Arab Emirates

Read More

Who is Maram Al Dahabi

Maram Al Dahabi is a prominent Syrian content creator and social media personality based in Dubai, United Arab Emirates. With an academic background in Chemical Engineering from the American University of Sharjah, she pivoted her career towards her passion for digital media and content creation. Her early professional experiences were diverse, including roles as a process engineer in Syria and an event promoter in Abu Dhabi, which provided her with a varied skillset before she fully dedicated herself to the digital content sphere. Maram is known for her content focusing on lifestyle, fashion, and beauty, as well as sharing her personal life and experiences. She co-runs the successful YouTube channel "NasohMaram" with her husband, Nasouh Malas, where they share vlogs, challenges, and family-oriented entertainment that has garnered a significant following. Her content reflects a modern lifestyle while maintaining a strong connection to Arab culture, and she has established herself as an influential figure in the region, leading to her participation in prestigious events such as those organized by Forbes Middle East.

Achievements of Maram Al Dahabi

Maram Al Dahabi co-founded the joint YouTube channel "NasohMaram" with her husband, Nasouh Malas. The channel features a variety of content, including daily vlogs, challenges, and personal life updates, successfully building an engaged community that follows their journey and experiences. In recognition of her growing influence in the digital media space, Maram has been featured at prominent events and platforms. She was listed as a creator and participant in events organized by Forbes Middle East, highlighting her standing as a recognized content creator within the region's business and creative community.

Read More