Who is Mubarak Alamian

Mubarak Alamian is a Kuwaiti lawyer and the founder of Al-Attaa Group for Advocacy and Legal Consultancy. He is known for his active role in Kuwait's legal circles and is a prominent member of the Kuwaiti Lawyers Association. His firm specializes in a range of legal areas, including constitutional, administrative, and commercial law, and has gained significant recognition by handling cases with major social and economic impact. Alamian maintains a notable media and digital presence, utilizing social media platforms, particularly X (formerly Twitter), to share his legal opinions on public issues and comment on legislation and judicial rulings. This activity has earned him a wide following and established him as a voice on legal affairs in Kuwait. Through his practice, he focuses on cases that intersect with public policy, such as competition protection laws and citizenship issues, reflecting his interest in the interplay between law and the public interest. His public stances have also shown support for his legal peers, with his firm endorsing a specific list in the Kuwaiti Lawyers Association elections.

Achievements of Mubarak Alamian

Mubarak Alamian achieved a landmark victory before the Constitutional Court, successfully arguing for the unconstitutionality of a legal provision related to financial penalties imposed by the Competition Protection Agency. This ruling led to the annulment of substantial fines exceeding 37 million Kuwaiti Dinars that had been levied against several cooperative societies he represented. In 2021, the Workers' Union of the Kuwaiti Ministry of Education contracted with Al-Attaa Group, the law firm founded by Mubarak Alamian. Under this agreement, the firm was tasked with taking legal action to defend the rights of teachers and address any defamatory acts against them, reflecting the professional community's trust in his firm's legal expertise.
