Who is Saed Younes

Saed Younes is a prominent Jordanian entrepreneur, author, and content creator, recognized as a leading figure in the Arab world in the fields of entrepreneurship, self-development, and the creator economy. He began his career in medical device sales, an experience that later inspired him to embody the principles he advocates. Younes is the founder of Saed Younes Academy, an online educational platform offering a wide array of courses on topics such as social media marketing, public speaking, confidence building, and goal achievement. His content focuses on empowering Arab youth to turn their passions into profitable ventures. He gained significant recognition for his podcasts, including "Riyadi min Biladi" (An Entrepreneur from My Country), which highlights the success stories of Arab entrepreneurs, and "Forsa Jadida" (A New Opportunity), which explores paths to achievement and abundance. In addition to his strong digital presence, Saed Younes has authored several popular books, including "How to Succeed Before You Start?" and "Famous in 3 Months," which provide practical strategies for personal and professional success in the digital age. He has cultivated a massive following across social media platforms, where he regularly shares motivational and educational content aimed at inspiring a new generation of creators and entrepreneurs.

Achievements of Saed Younes

Saed Younes has authored two widely successful books: "How to Succeed Before You Start?", a practical guide to setting and achieving goals, and "Famous in 3 Months", which reveals strategies for building influence and fame online. These books have become key resources for individuals interested in self-development and digital marketing. He launched the podcast "Riyadi min Biladi," where he hosted successful entrepreneurs from across the Arab world to share their stories and experiences. The podcast achieved significant success, and in late 2014, it ranked 22nd globally in the business category on Apple iTunes, being the only Arabic podcast on the list at the time. Younes founded the Saed Younes Academy, a leading online learning platform that offers dozens of specialized courses. The academy has helped thousands of people develop their skills in diverse areas such as marketing, sales, public speaking, charisma, and growing online businesses. In 2014, he received two awards from his alma mater, the German Jordanian University, during its Fourth Evening of Excellence. The first award recognized his outstanding performance during his professional training in Germany, and the second honored his achievements as a GJU graduate.
