Who is Tuhamaa Dahhak

Tuhamaa Dahhak is a prominent Syrian chef and culinary content creator known for her spontaneous personality and her ability to elevate home-style recipes with a professional touch. Originally a graduate with a degree in English Literature, she worked as a teacher before her passion for cooking led her to a significant career change. Dahhak decided to pursue her culinary ambitions by enrolling at the Gilgamesh Institute, where she formally trained and graduated as a professional chef. Her media career was launched when the institute nominated her for a position with the Syrian satellite channel, Sama TV, where she joined the program "Sabah El Kher" (Good Morning). She later hosted "The Chef Tuhama Show with Hawa Al-Sham." Dahhak gained widespread fame across the Arab world after a candid on-air moment went viral. During a live episode, the meat dish she was preparing burned, and her natural, unscripted reaction resonated strongly with viewers, turning the mishap into a pivotal moment that launched her social media stardom. Today, Tuhamaa leverages her platform to create engaging and accessible culinary content on YouTube, Instagram, and TikTok, sharing a variety of innovative recipes that inspire a large following.

Achievements of Tuhamaa Dahhak

Tuhamaa Dahhak turned a potential on-air mishap into a career-defining moment when a video of her accidentally burning a dish during a live broadcast went viral globally. This spontaneous event, rather than being an embarrassment, launched her to social media fame and established her as one of the most recognized culinary content creators in the Arab world. Dahhak built a successful television career, hosting specialized cooking segments on well-known programs for the Syrian channel Sama TV.
